

Sancrox interchange

Urban design and landscape plan

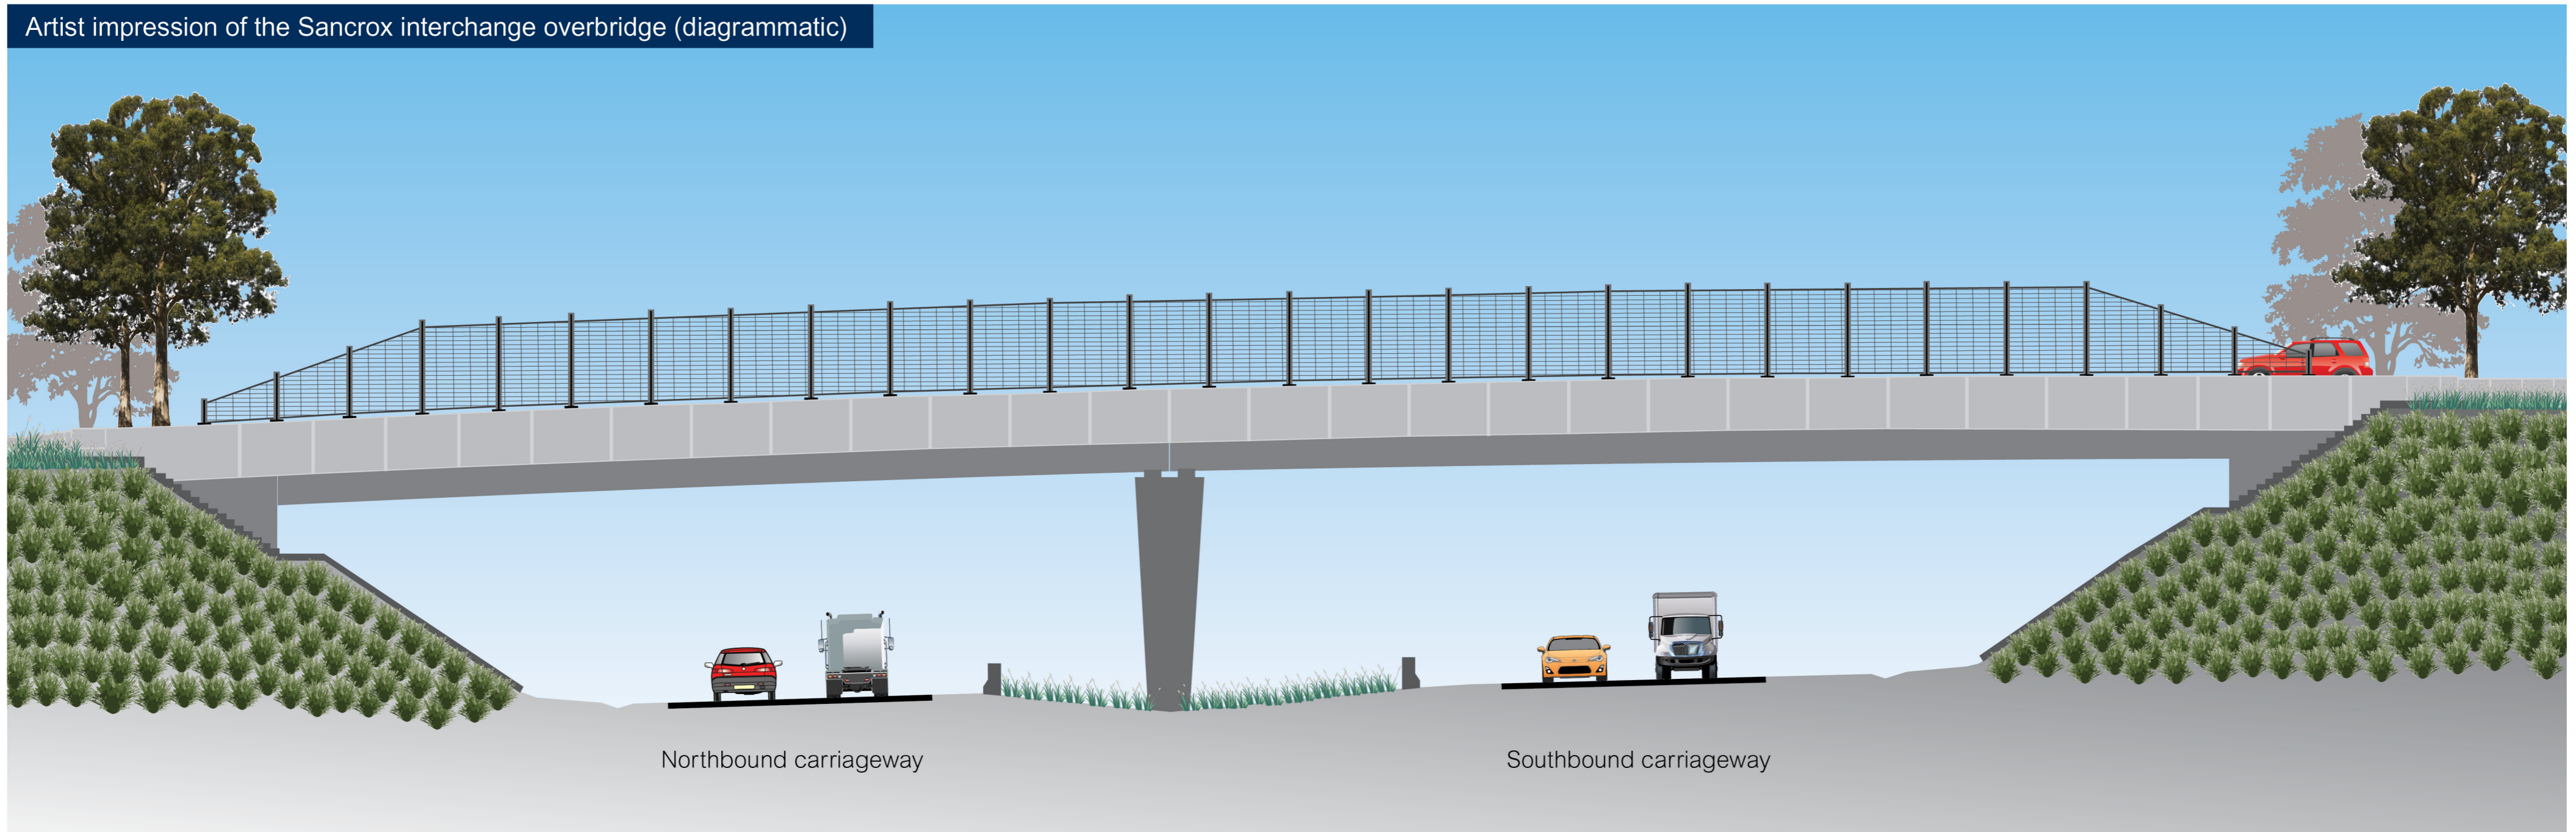

Australian Government

MARCH 2014

Artist impression of the Sancrox interchange overbridge (diagrammatic)

Urban and landscape design aims to provide a safe, interesting and diverse driving experience for the road user.

The proposed urban and landscape designs for the Sancrox interchange, early work for the Oxley Highway to Kempsey Pacific Highway upgrade, are on display for community comment until Friday, 4 April 2014.

Urban design considers the form and design of the whole project including the bridges, mounds, throw screens, earthworks and the colours and materials to be used. The landscape design will help blend the road into the existing vegetation patterns along the highway and provide visual screening.

Proposed planting

Trees	170
Shrubs	6500
Seed	560kg
